Pertinent Topics Discussed by H.C.

In his review of negotiations which led to the building of a third transcontinental railway through Canada, Sir Robert Borden in his memoirs points out that while all that money was being spent it was hopeless to make any headway against the government, and in 1904 and 1908 he went down to defeat. The prosperity that was founded upon the spending of borrowed money had allurements that the electors could not resist, but we have been paying for it ever since. The Republican party has been going through the same ordeal in the United States. A party in opposition is up against insuperable odds when fighting an administration that has billions to spend in relief and in public works. It will again be up against it when it returns to power and has to deal out the consequences, as Sir Robert Borden had to deal with the railway problem he had tried to avert.

We do not know whether it is still being published, but there used to be a small weekly in Ottawa called "United Canada." Its make-up was sloppy for the printer was careless. Two of the letters in the first word became transposed and for three weeks the paper appeared as UNTIED Canada. The printer was careless all right, but he had an unconscious gift of prophecy.

The colonies Britain and France got from Germany are not of much value to them and both countries would be willing to hand them back if economic considerations alone were to prevail. If France gave back Togoland and the Cameroons and Britain gave back German East and West, it would not be long before air and submarine bases were established there, and Africa would become an armed camp as Europe is. This is their only fear, and Hitler's Germany is doing everything necessary to justify it.

Incidents that occurred in Austria and Czechoslovakia were seized upon by Nazis as indicating that Schuschnigg and Benes had lost control—that the people there had got out of hand, etc. Those incidents were few and sporadic as compared with the incidents that occurred in every city and town in Germany when mobs destroyed and looted synagogues and Jewish shops, because a Jewish boy had killed a Nazi diplomat. Did these mobs get out of hand? Had the government lost control? The answer probably is that mob violence is officially permitted against Jews and Jewish properties. Goebbels did "request" the mobs to desist, promising them that their rulers would attend to these things in another way—by legislation and ordinance. Fire departments knew what they were expected to do, viz. prevent the fires from spreading into Aryan properties.

There is always danger in starting fires. It seemed safe enough to kindle the flames of prejudice against the Jews, but the rabble does not appreciate the refinements of official persecution and so it handles the matter in its own crude way and sets fire to buildings owned by Jews. This seemed reasonable enough to the mob. It did not stop to think that these fires might spread into Gentile areas, and fire departments had all they could do to localize the flames so that they would be content with the destruction of Jewish property alone. That's the trouble with agitators. Being firebrands themselves, they encourage others to apply the torch but when they become alarmed about their own property, they call the fire brigade.

The Nazi press, and the Minister of Propaganda condoned the action of the mobs, and one paper linked the young Jew with Churchill, Eden and Duff Cooper. The Nazi contention is that what goes on in Germany is German.

November Weddings Of Local Interest

REA — SCOTT

A quiet wedding was solemnized on November 17th, at the home of Miss W. Brown of Calgary, when Mabel Ora, second daughter of Mr. O. J. Scott of Travers, became the bride of Chester Ford Rea, youngest son of Mrs. E. R. Brown of Sunnybrook. Rev. Bainbridge officiated.

The bride was becomingly gowned in green crepe and wore a corsage of pink roses. Miss Wilhemine Brown and Mr. O. Scott attended the bridal couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Rea will make their home in Vulcan.

SWANSON — MCINTYRE

The home of Rev. and Mrs. M. Dobson was the scene of a quiet wedding, on Saturday, November 26th, when Islay Dyan, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. McIntyre of Vulcan, and Henry Swanson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Swanson of Vancouver, were united in marriage. Rev. Dobson performed the ceremony.

The bride was charming in a gown of royal blue silk crepe. Her corsage was of red roses. Miss Helen Varves of Calgary, was the bridesmaid and wore dark blue taffeta and a corsage of pink roses. Mr. Maurice McNair attended the groom.

Immediately following the ceremony the bridal party motored to the home of the bride's parents, east of town, where a joint reception and shower was held. Forty friends and relatives of the young people were present and partook of a very dainty wedding supper. A three tier wedding cake, with a miniature bride and groom centred the attractively appointed table. Pink and white streamers added a dainty touch of colour. After supper, Mr. L. A. Douglass, on behalf of the assembled guests, presented the bride and groom with an enormous pink and silver wedding bell containing many lovely gifts.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Swanson left for Calgary where they will make their home. Among the guests coming from a distance were the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Dann Crampton of Fordville, Nirth Dakota, Mr. and Mrs. Roy McIntyre, Miss Mabel McBeth, Miss Helen Varves, Miss Rose Varves, Mr. Maurice McNair, Mr. Dallas Sperry, and Mr. and Mrs. Norman McKague, all of Calgary.

Jews for Canada?

The plight of the refugees in Prague is increased by the fact that they are simply trapped. All railway lines and roads leaving Prague now are will be successful no one can tell, but Canada certainly would make a good bargain, says the Manchester Guardian, English liberal paper. These people are highly intelligent, very skilful, and hard working, and any country would find satisfaction in accepting them.—Canadian Jewish Review.

cross German territory, and the only way for refugees to leave Prague safely is by the Prague-Paris air line, "cos machines" are booked weeks ahead.

A permanent solution must be found. This is recognized everywhere. The German Social Democrat deputy, Herr Jaksch, one of the most sympathetic and heroic persons from the Sudetenland, is attempting to get permission for the settlement of 70,000 Social Democratic and other German refugees from the Sudeten districts in Canada.

Grain Buyers of Southern District Meet To Form Own Organization

Objectives Include Contributory Pension Scheme; Relief From Burden of Collections

E. A. Thompson Named District President

All Elevator Points in District Represented on Directorate; Further Organization Planned

(From High River Times)

Grain buyers of this district formed an organization at a meeting held in Okotoks on Nov. 21. Two important matters discussed were a contributory pension scheme, and relief from responsibilities of being collecting agencies.

Introduced by Mr. S. Foote of Didsbury, an interesting and instructive talk was given by Mr. Smith of Olds. Mr. Smith was accompanied by enthusiasts from Carstairs, Didsbury, and Olds, and in his address, he dealt with the advantages of forming an organization to be known as the association of grain buyers. The objects of such an association would be primarily to further the interests of the buyers (1) by relieving them of the responsibility of being district collection agents and (2) possible contributory pension scheme.

The meeting was well attended by representatives from Okotoks, High River, Mazeppa, Brant, Azure, Champion, Kirkcaldy, Vulcan, Ensign and DeWinton.

A provisional executive was elected to further the organization—president, E. A. Thompson, High River; vice-president, W. Buchanan, Brant; secretary, I. Hyde of Ensign. The directorate represents all points in the district as follows: H. Buhr, High River; C. Thompson, Cayley; M. Hindle, Mazeppa; Mr. Jarvis, Blackie; G. Gould, Brant; M. O'Dwyer, Ensign; Mr. Jones, Vulcan; R. Hummon, Champion; A. Weber, Azure; Mr. Saunders, Kirkcaldy; M. Graham, Academy; Mr. Gough, Midnapore; Mr. Everson, DeWinton.

Two committees were appointed, one to organize the district south of Vulcan, and the other the district surrounding Claresholm. The first committee, Messrs. Hummon, Jones, O'Dwyer, Saunders and Gould. The second committee, Peck, Murray, Moore, Thorson, Buhr and Eckmier.

Grain buyers resident in the above named districts are asked to be on the alert for notification of meetings which will be held in the near future.

Rifle Club Competes Provincial Match

Results of the provincial matches of the Dominion Marksmen sporting rifle competition, with over a thousand marksmen competing, were recently announced and show that the Vulcan Rifle Club placed eleventh out of 23 teams competing in the Alberta division.

The provincial title went to the Claresholm East team, whose possible of 1500x1500 contained the most shots inside the X-ring. Second position went to the Calgary Rifle Club, while the "K" Division of the R.C.M.P., Edmonton, defending provincial champions took third place.

A prelude to the Dominion matches that will be shot next month, the provincial matches attracted the largest field of shooters of any Canadian rifle tournament. Like the provincial matches, the Dominion match will be shot on twenty-yard expert targets, the best five scores made by the seven-men team to count toward the final total.

Members and scores of the Vulcan Rifle Club are as follows: J. A. Anderson 298, H. E. King 300, R.C. Munro 298, D. Brooks 300, T. Brooks 298—1494x1500.

Students Union Presents Program

The Vulcan High School Students' Union held its first regular meeting of the year in the I.O.O.F. hall on Friday, Nov. 25th. High school Inspector Sullivan and a number of other visitors were present. President Harry Martin was in the chair.

Following the general business was a program which included a piano solo by Rhoda Scobbie, a vocal duet by Betty Ottewill and Jean Martin, a piano solo by Marian McDonald, special versions of "The Old Apple Tree" and "Mary Had a Little Lamb" by Gail Atkinson, Donald Grey, Tommy Ridley and Harry Haussell of Grade 9, a piano solo by Elva Mallory, a humorous monologue by Lillian Clark, and a vocal quartet by Nora Collier, Rhue Clark, Mildred and Lillian Ulrich, who sang "Beautiful Ohio."

The school paper, edited by Rhoda Scobbie and Verne Almond, was then presented.

The next meeting will be held on Friday, Dec. 9th, and all friends and those interested in school activities are invited to attend.

7.30 p.m. Evening service. Sermon subject, "Ten Questions and Seventy Answers." Special music by the senior choir. 8.45 p.m. Young People's Fireside Hour services.

Advertising

Everybody believes in advertising in one form or another, but in the opinion of experts here as in the United States the newspaper, and especially the weekly newspaper, has all other mediums out-distanced. Proof is plenty. A year ago the automobile industry had on hand used cars in great numbers. Money was needed. A national used car week was staged. All mediums were employed, $120,000 was spent with 400 radio stations, 350,000 in promotion, and $950,000 in newspaper advertising. With what result? With what result? 200,000 used cars at an average price of $200 were sold, and $40,000,000 secured for that which seemed unsaleable, at a selling cost of 2.8 per cent. Ford organization was jubilant. "Newspapers proved their effectiveness," said General Motors.—St. Mary's Journal.

CANADIANS BY ADOPTION

ONE of the fine programs given over CBC last week was a Scandinavian concert broadcast from Winnipeg. Many listeners have commented favorably on this as a splendid feature for a national broadcast. It was the type of program which stirred the blood, rousing a consciousness of the many nationalities which serve to strengthen the Canadian nation. The pride of these people in their adopted country, the charm and vigor conveyed in their program, were inspiring. It combined the outlook of a new land, with the gifts and arts of an older land.

Those who live in an Anglo-Saxon community, rarely in touch with people from other lands, are apt to fail in appreciation of what settlers from other countries can and do bring to the Dominion of Canada. One of the most pleasurable and inspiring experiences which the writer has had, was a Scandinavian evening in Winnipeg. An immense community hall had gathered together the handicraft of different European peoples. Each booth was presided over by costumed natives, from some particular country. The traditions and insignia of the old land were woven into gay patterns, in rugs, quilts and indescribably fine needlework. The dishes that were served were the pride of the different countries. But best of all were the gay and gracious people who had arranged the event, and the splendid understanding existing between them and the native Winnipeggers who were attending.

Apparently a certain element of Winnipeg people have made a real mission of "Canadianizing" the so-called foreign element. They have encouraged newcomers to express themselves in the arts and crafts of their native land, and have furthered markets for sale of this exquisite work. They have brought strangers into touch with people of their own nationality, and have extended the circles, gradually breaking down barriers of language and loneliness. They have tried to find uses in Canada, for every gift and facility which people of other nations have brought to the country. There is no surer way to win allegiance for a new land than through the feeling that one has something valuable to contribute.

Those who have taken up this mission seriously, are themselves rewarded by a revelation of what other nationalities bring to this country. They have learned to admire the vigor of intellect, the soundness of character, which they have found, and to value the friendships they have formed.

Much of the spirit with which new Canadians meet and adopt Canada, is the responsibility of Canadians. The concert from Winnipeg the other evening, was a message to the whole Dominion of the good work done in Winnipeg.

CALLOUS TO SUFFERING

THERE is something rather shocking in the way we are becoming inured in this age to suffering—other people's suffering. It is as if the multiplicity of barbaric deeds committed all over the world, had dulled the finer feelings of humanity, by their multiplicity. A writer in our last week's issue comments on this in reference to appeals for aid in Canada for Chinese sufferers. The response from the Canadian public is disappointing in view of the deserving nature of the cause. To an extent the same indifference is evident in the general attitude toward the Jewish situation in Germany.

Although expressing horror at the persecution of Jews in Germany, there is no great eagerness to have Canada open wide its doors as a sanctuary for Jewish refugees. Yet Canadians in the past have been a generous people. They have responded liberally, and often at sacrifice, to calls for aid from distress of people in other lands. Why do the agonies of the present day meet with such casual, lukewarm interest?

The world must be growing more selfish, more self-centred—individually as well as nationally. The present attitude is perhaps a natural outgrowth of pyramiding distresses and confusions. Individuals have lost whatever sense of security in a "good world" which they may have entertained in past decades. Even in a relatively sheltered country like Canada, they have been accompanied by anxiety, discouragement and economic uncertainty. Absorbed in their own difficulties, they view other catastrophes merely from the standpoint of the helpless or indifferent spectator.

There seems to be little today of the idealism which prompted the unquestioning sacrifices offered during the Great War. There is little desire to assume any personal responsibility on matters of national principles and honor. Perhaps this is because of an unceasing suspicion that the causes which might have been worth fighting for, may be distorted and camouflaged merely for political advantage.

Faith in leaders, in causes and in personal judgment is beggared. The clear-cut vision of a world of happiness and security for all, has disappeared. The fountains of compassion, and regard for fellowman are drying up.

Perhaps a frank realization of this gradual dulling of finer instincts may serve to rouse humanity for the sake of its own soul. In a world gone mad, there still are principles worth championing. There are leaders worth following. Peace and serenity can come neither to individual nor nation, through callousness and selfishness.

Items From Bob Edwards' High River Eye Opener

Banquet to celebrate Peter McGonigle's release from Penitentiary; Lord Strathcona's kind letter; tributes to McGonigle from Mayor of Calgary, Hutchings and others; McGonigle deeply affected.

High River Eye Opener 1904

A pleasant banquet was tendered by the Calgary Board of Trade last week to Mr. Peter McGonigle of Midnapore on the occasion of his release from Edmonton penitentiary, where he had spent some time—trying to live down a conviction of horse stealing. Quite a number of prominent citizens were present, and the songs, toasts and speeches, passed off with all the éclat possible on such short notice. Letters of regret were read from Lord Strathcona, Earl Grey, Premier Ruthenford, Joseph Seagram, W. F. Maclean, Rev. John MacDougall and others. Lord Strathcona's letter was typical of the general sentiment, saying "I regret exceedingly that I shall be unable to attend the McGonigle banquet, but my sympathies go out to your honored guest. The name of Peter McGonigle will ever stand high in the roll of eminent confederates. Once long ago, I myself, came near achieving distinction in that direction, when I performed some dexterous financing with the Bank of Montreal funds. In consequence, however, of C. P. R. stocks going up instead of down, I wound up in the House of Lords, instead of Stoney Mountain."

Joseph Seagram's affecting letter of regret said: "Though unable to be with you in the flesh, my spirit is with you. Wishing McGonigle all luck in his next venture."

A sumptuous banquet It was a sumptuous banquet, and as the walnuts, prunes and wine came on, cigars were lit, and Mayor Emerson of Calgary, proposed the toast to the King. His honor expressed satisfaction in his majesty's reign, insisting indeed that he was as good a King as could be got for the money. He did not believe that the time was yet ripe for the British Empire to be ruled by a commission, as this had been tried in Calgary with poor satisfaction. He was quite agreeable that the king should remain on his throne to the end

In subdivision 2, the candidates are C. F. Ellis, H. D. Johnson, A. G. Lewis.

Subdivision 3, Emanuel Randle, Richard Ward.

Subdivision 4, Percy Dougherty, Chas. Malmberg, Thomas Margetts.

Subdivision 5, William Love, John Lucas, A. J. Maisiey.

Who May Vote As amended in 1938 the definition of an elector now reads:

"In any established district other than a town district, any person of the full age of twenty-one years who is a resident thereof, a British subject, and who is the owner of property liable to assessment for school purposes therein or is the tenant of property which is liable to assessment for school purposes; and shall include the husband, wife, son, daughter, father or mother of any such persons provided that such husbands, wife, son, daughter, father or mother is of the full age of twenty-one years, is a British subject and is a resident of the established district and any resident who is a British subject and who has in the current year or in the previous year paid to the district a tax for school purposes other than a tax payable for school purposes in respect of property." (Section 2-d-ii and amendments 1938.)

Health Gain 1938 From Metrop-Life

Major Insurance Company of Canada and U.S. Gives Encouraging Statistical Returns

From the Metropolitan Life Insurance statistical service comes the following cheering data.

Not only are the populations of Canada and the United States a healthy people but they are growing even healthier.

For, following the best health year ever recorded—1937—the following gains have been reported for the first nine months of 1938:

A 34.5 per cent decline in deaths from influenza-pneumonia.

A 16.3 per cent decline in automobile fatalities.

A fall of 10.2 per cent in the death rate from tuberculosis.

A drop of 10.1 per cent in the mortality from diseases and conditions connected with maternity and childbirth.

An improvement of 7.4 per cent in the death rate from accidents other than automobile fatalities.

A fall of 8.5 per cent in the homicide rate.

A decline of 4.4 per cent in heart disease mortality.

A 2.4 per cent drop in the death rate for cerebral hemorrhage.

An improvement of 3.6 per cent in Mortality from kidney diseases.

These 1938 health gains are reported by statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, based on records of the company's millions of Industrial policyholders who constitute a reliable cross-section of the working populations of the two countries.

There are, however, a few instances of adverse changes, such as rises of 2.1 per cent in the cancer death rate, 10.7 per cent in mortality from diseases of the arteries and of 4.5 per cent in the suicide rate.

Divisional Board Of Enlarged Unit

May Take Over Administration
On Jan. 3; Organization
Met on Dec. 21; Board Will
Name Its Secretary

In connection with the institution of the Foothills School Unit, there are certain features of interest at the present time to ratepayers and school officials.

It is anticipated that the divisional board of five trustees will assume all administration of the 75 schools in the unit on Jan. 3. Since there will be a definite need for expenditures during the month of January, it is necessary that district books be sent to the divisional office in time to permit a consolidation of the business of the division. It is assumed that the divisional board will engage an auditor to begin work about Dec. 26 on the district books. It is believed that a saving of 50% in cost might be effected by having one auditor, together with additional advantages. The expectation is that a secretary-treasurer or an acting secretary-treasurer will be appointed at the organization meeting of the divisional board to be held on December 21.

Secretary-Treasurer The secretary-treasurer is appointed by the divisional board, and the inspector of schools sits with the board in advisory capacity. The divisional board assumes responsibility for individual audits at the time of preparing the consolidated financial statement for the division as a whole.

It is suggested that any December cheques of district secretaries be issued not later than Dec. 23 to clear up small district business, and that the bank passbook be handed in to the bank to be retained until requested by the auditor.

The following should be forwarded to "the Secretary, Foothills School Division, High River"—all cash books vouchers and other school papers since the last audit; teachers' contracts and other contracts or correspondence of 1938; a certified statement of all outstanding accounts and debentures not yet due, and the last audit statement; insurance policy, title to school site, district seal; the minute book, etc.

The following should be retained—all old files, registers, cash books, etc. not relating to 1938 business. But these should not be destroyed for some months.

Fuel—Teachers—Janitors Note that if you have bought science materials, tools, typewriters, etc. during recent years without claiming grants for them, forward all vouchers and a statement in the matter. We will claim grants.

Continue to look after fuel either in December, January or later, until arising further from the divisional office. Charge accounts to the divisional office.

Advise teachers and janitors that no changes are anticipated in existing arrangements prior to September next. Send in a detailed report on name, address and rate paid to the janitor.

Cash on hand as at December 31 will be required for meeting salary of your teacher during January and February as in past years, and will be returned to your credit from requisitions for 1939.

Advise Against Spending All Cash The present school districts are advised against spending all their cash, in order to have less to turn in to the divisional board. Emergency repairs should be given attention in December, but spending cash without having provided for such expenditures in the budget is regarded as a mistake which will be paid for in higher taxes.

The wisest plan is to inform the divisional board of what the district wants done with extra cash. It is only fair to assume that the divisional board will be glad to improve properties from divisional funds. And this would be particularly so if the school had cash surplus invested.

Who Are Electors On December 10, elections for divisional trustees will be held in four of the five subdivisions of the Foothills Unit. In subdivision 1, W. R. Barker was elected by acclamation.

many's affair, yet Hitler and his press show great concern about what is going on in Britain and the United States. They resent foreign criticism, but feel free to censure Churchill and Eden, Roosevelt and Hull. They ordered a Spanish seaport to be bombarded because a German ship was attacked. They drove many Jews into concentration camps and allowed mobs to destroy Jewish property because of the act of a Jewish school-boy. In both instances many innocent people were killed or imprisoned to uphold German honor and prestige. We have no idea why they should think that terrorism and ruthlessness vindicates German honor. In the rest of the world it is accepted as a manifestation of innate brutality. It forces the conviction that we cannot remain free if such a nation attains world mastery.

It was inept, we think, of the British government to take up with Berlin the editorial in a German paper linking up Churchill, Eden and Duff Cooper with the murder of a Nazi secretary of the Embassy in Paris. It is logical enough, because the press there is officially controlled, but it will only encourage the Nazi rulers to raise objections to articles in British papers. It is futile to tell them that the British government does not control the press. Their disdain of democracy derives from the fact that it allows its government to be harassed by other parties and criticized by newspapers. If Chamberlain were to say "The conditions are different. You control the press in your country. We do not control it in our country," Hitler, would have nothing but pity and scorn for this confession of official importance.

The plight of the Jews in Greater Germany is pitiful. They have been deprived of civil rights and ousted from their occupations. Because of the murder of von Rath they are to be heavily fined. (The government expects to get four hundred million from this source.) They are to be expelled but where can they go? Every country to which they can go has its quotas. These quotas were made in restriction of immigration and the public opinion that originated them is still formidable.

The brutality of the German government has placed Chamberlain in an unenviable position. It musters strength for the already strong element that opposed his negotiations with Hitler. The dictator has on more than occasion expressed his fear that Churchill or Eden might succeed Chamberlain but that does not deter him from doing things that make it

Treaties Forge A Link For Peace

Britain, United States and Canada Drawn Closely Together by Inter-trade Agreement

Three great democratic nations forged last week at Washington a strong, well-fashioned link in the chain of world-economic peace.

That link has been in the making for several years. It has been forged in the belief and hope that a world peace programme can only be brought about by economic disarmament.

Ever since President Roosevelt appointed as his Secretary of State the Hon. Cordell Hull, the foreign trade policy of that country has been geared to the larger issue of world economic peace. With quiet, measured statesmanship he has moved toward his goal of removing the root causes of war by clearing away trade and tariff barriers created by narrow-minded nationalism.

Canada and the other British nations have accepted Mr. Hull's challenge and co-operated in his efforts. The first major step involving the Empire was the Canada-U.S. trade treaty of 1935. Another was the re-writing of the Ottawa Agreements in London last year.

In the latter, United States played no active part, but the "thawing" of Empire preferences, frozen in 1932, did in large measure pave the way for the major tripartite agreement consummated last week.

This is the larger issue, the larger vision of the three-way treaties which have now been signed and which do, in effect, admit Uncle Sam into the family circle of the Empire trading area.

Apart from individual gains and losses, the success of these new agreements will be gauged by the degree to which they do actually cause a greater volume of goods to flow not only between the three signatory countries but also among the score or more of nations who are indirectly affected. Nellie McClung Tells of Europe

Was at Geneva During Crisis as Canadian Delegate to League of Nations Assembly

"We saw the blackout in Geneva," says Mrs. Nellie McClung, describing her recent observations during the recent crisis. "Everyone felt his way along the streets in the awful blackness. There was a crackle and rustle of voices in the darkness, but no laughter. Only the luminous buttons worn by pedestrians pricked light into the blackness that was like a ploughed field on a rainy night. We were all afraid. I thought 'where is our philosophy, our diplomacy, our inventions when our only defense is blackness of night.'"

Mrs. McClung attended the League of Nations Assembly as Canadian delegate, but commenting on the league during the crisis, she said "Speech after speech showed how sadly human nature had let down the principles on which the league was founded. Dr. Wellington Koo, delegate for China pointed out that although his country had at no time failed the League, Japan, an aggressor nation, could buy war material from every member in the League."

"Litvinoff, the Russian delegate declared that the League covenant was like a new fire engine in a village that ran up and down the street on sunny days, but when a fire broke out it was locked in the fire hall. His remarks had been scathing concerning the failure of Britain and France to stand by Czechoslovakia. The Soviet minister to Sweden declared in sorrow that Germany wanted to alienate Russian allies, so that Russia would have to face Germany alone. 'We have just struggled out of the mire' was the sad statement and are beginning to get the country organized. War would end it all."

The final failure of the league, said Mrs. McClung was due to the selfishness of the signatory nations. Yet it had settled 17 crises and avoided open warfare four times. The International Labor Office had done an amazing amount of work in the realm of social service and health. It had proved of immense value to the world.

Speaking of Paris, she says: "I saw a city guarded, mobilized and paralyzed with fear. Its relief was too great to question the means by which reprieve had been granted. We had prayed for peace, even for a year. Now we have got it. But things are by no means settled, and what are we going to do with that year to bring about lasting peace?"

Mrs. McClung presented a strong plea for active Christian democracy. "We need not be afraid of Communism and Nazism. We have something much better, but the trouble is that other people work at their beliefs, and we do not. We criticize our democracy. It is our job to make our democracy a living thing. We can combat other ideologies, not by suppression, but by showing our young people that we have something better. We will lose our liberty if we are not more alive."

DARK EYES SEE BEST

Based on tests among 1,238 motorists, half of them with light eyes and half dark, two American investigators have found that the light-eyed motorists have poorer vision at night and are more sensitive to glare than drivers with dark eyes. The light-eyed drivers tested included some with blue eyes, some with light gray eyes and some with green eyes. The dark-eyed drivers comprised those with dark brown and dark blue eyes. The important factor in making up the two groups was "not the color, but the lightness of darkness of the eyes." The conclusion drawn by the two scientists is that drivers with light eyes should drive very cautiously at night and wear sun glasses when driving in the daytime. That is not to say, however, that dark-eyed drivers may drive with less than ordinary caution. Our view is that light-headed drivers are a greater source of danger than light-eyed. And at all times young gentlemen should avoid taking too great interest in the eyes of their fair companions whether theirs be light or dark.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

"Typhoid Mary" the New York woman who was a constant carrier of typhoid fever germs, died at the age of 70. Epidemics of typhoid in wealthy Long Island homes were finally traced to Mary, and examination showed her to be teeming with death germs. She was isolated from 1910 on North Brother Island.

United Church

Special music last Sunday evening was a trio, "Listen to the Voice of Jesus," by Misses F. Hawkins, C. Benadon and K. Jones, and the anthem "God is Love" by the Junior choir. In the evening Miss Spence rendered the solo "In the Garden," and the senior choir the anthem "Ye Gates that Lift Your Heads on High."

The Ladies' Aid held a successful bazaar in the Sunday school room on Saturday. They wish to thank all who supported and all who gave donations of material, also those who assisted in the erection of the booths, material for which was kindly lent by the Beaver Lumber Co.

The postponed meeting of the W.M. S. Autumn Thankoffering was held in the Church on Thursday last. The W.M.S. has had a very successful year and have quite a surplus over and above their allocation for the year.

Our Sunday school last Sunday was marked by an attendance which was a record for the past five years. In our adult Bible class there is an enrollment of 37 members. Beginning next Sunday with the four gospels, there will be four studies on the New Testament.
